The University Archives Photo Collection contains images of Cal Poly from its beginning as a vocational school in 1903 through 1960. For photographs from 1962 through the 1980s, contact University Archives directly.

The photographs, mostly black and white, chronicle the growth and development of colleges and departments, campus events and student life, including Poly Royal, Homecoming, the annual Rose Float, and athletics. The collection also includes campus views and aerial photography, buildings and grounds, students and faculty in classroom settings, or involved in “learn-by-doing” field work. Portraits of some administrators, faculty members, students, athletes, and well-known alumni and visitors are also included in the collection.
