

THE MIGRANT PROJECT

Contemporary California Farm Workers

Photographs and text by Rick Nahmias

"The Migrant Project" is an in-depth photojournalistic portrait and recently published book detailing the lives and struggles of today's over one million California migrant farm workers.

A bilingual exhibit to promote diversity awareness and education

Sponsored by Cal Poly's Social Sciences and Agribusiness departments, CLA and CAFES; California Rural Legal Assistance; Center for Latino Policy Research, UC Berkeley; and The Kurz Family Foundation

October 1 — November 30, 2009*
Cal Poly Robert E. Kennedy Library

Opening Gala and Viewing Friday, October 2, 6–8 p.m. to honor the efforts of Talley Vineyards and to welcome photographer Rick Nahmias.

Mano Tinta
A BENEFIT FOR THE FUND
FOR VINEYARD AND FARM WORKERS

Talley will be pouring at the free reception their charity wine, the Mano Tinta.

Details of the artist's work and information about Mano Tinta and The Fund for Vineyard and Farm Workers can be viewed at these Web sites: <http://themigrantproject.com>

<http://talleyvineyards.com>

For more information, contact Stacey Rucas: srukas@calpoly.edu